Dear Parents/Carers

RE: Year 11 Pre-public Examinations

It is hard to believe Year 11 have already completed 17 weeks of their final year and only 13 weeks remain before their final GCSE exams begin. We know it has been an uncertain time for them but as we move closer to that end point, we can become more confident that Year 11 students, across the country, will sit formal exams this summer.

We have previously published that your child will sit a second round of PPEs between Monday 14th February and Friday 4th March, with the half term break in the middle. By this point most subjects will have finished their course and these exams will therefore give an excellent insight into where your child should focus their revision efforts for the summer.

As you will be aware, on Monday 7th February we are expecting a release from the exam boards of topics to be examined this summer. We have therefore decided to extend our assessment window so that for those subjects, where information will be released, adaptations to the exams can be made and we can ensure students have all the information required in a timely fashion. PPE's will therefore go on until Friday 11th March. The only exams that will be sat before the half term will be the ones where we already have all the information that is going to be released.

Please find overleaf the PPE timetable. This includes all exams that will be sat by students. Personalised timetables will follow in the next couple of weeks. Where there are option subjects, students will only sit the exams they study. For the subjects below, only students identified as needing to take an exam this summer will sit the PPE. This will be discussed with your child.

- Child Care
- Health and Social Care
- Sport Studies and Sport Science
- Hospitality and Catering
